

School Homework as a Method of Teaching and Learning

Lucy Kinuthia Wanyore & Catherine Gakii Murungi

Abstract

Pre-primary school children need positive early learning experiences to help their intellectual, social and emotional development. This lays the foundation for later school success. As a learning strategy, pre-primary school teachers give school homework to help children practice what they learn in class. Despite the many studies carried out on benefits of school homework in primary and secondary school levels, researchers claim that school homework is not beneficial to pre-primary school children. This is because they are already tired after being in school the whole day and they need time to relax and play.

Fulltext: https://www.amazon.com/School-Homework-Method-Teaching-Learning/dp/3330018445/ref=sr\_1\_1?dchild=1&keywords=%22School+Homework+as+a+Method+of+Teaching+and+Learning%22&qid=1613715273&s=books&sr=1-1